

Landscapes

of Australia

Diploma graduation project, summer 2012

Julia Disser, Chris Bućanac

First edition 2012

copyright © 2012

All rights reserved. This publication is protected copyright and permission should be obtained from the publisher prior to any prohibited publishing or reproduction in any form.

Cover design & composition: Julia Disser

Photographs: Chris Bućanac

Printing press: Frick Kreativbüro & Onlinedruckerei e.K.

Printed in Germany

www.thejourney.com.de

www.bucanac.eu

www.juliadisser.de

Landscapes
of Australia

Preface

The nature in Australia is perhaps the most impactful and memorable part of anyone's trip to this country. Its majesty is ideal for landscape photography. The scenery is extremely diverse and includes gorges, deep forests, crystal clear beaches, deserts and so much more. Millions of years ago it was almost completely covered in rainforest, although much of it dried out as the old continent moved towards the warmer climate. Humans built big cities - modern, highly developed and rich in culture, which hold three quarters of the country's population. But as Australia is the least populated continent in the world, it is easy to retreat from the metropolitan areas to enjoy the spirit of nature. Certainly, no matter who you are, you will be staring at a stunning panorama one day, without finding the right words to describe it...

1 Melbourne Skyline from St. Kilda Pier, Victoria | S 37° 51' 53" E 144° 58' 01" | 0 msl

Cradle Mountain National Park, Tasmania | S 41° 40' 11" E 145° 56' 46" | 1261 msl

Lake St. Claire National Park, Tasmania | S 42° 0' 60" E 146° 6' 13" | 738 msl

Manly Beach, New South Wales | S 33° 47' 40" E 151° 17' 17" | 0 msl

2 Byron Bay Lighthouse, Most Eastern Point of Australia, New South Wales | S 28° 38' 07" E 153° 38' 16" | 69 msl

